In the trial of Ed and Henry Cornett at Chickasha for the murder of Faunt Downey at Verden, Feb. 21st, Henry Cornett was held to the District court without bail and Ed Cornett was turned loose the court holding the evidence insufficient to hold him. "THE GENTLE JURY"

The twelve ladies who so faithfully practiced and prepared the suffragette farce for the benefit of the Presbyterian Social Union, did their parts well Tuesday evening. The rainy evening kept many at home, yet a small crowd listened to a good program. The music and readings given before the play were all good and heartily enclosed.

The play was staged by Miss McLaughlin, one of the popular city school teachers. The jury of women appeared. It was indeed a "dukes mixture." The sheriff, Mr. Marinelli, who opposed the ballot for women, emphasized the fact by refusing to give his opinion of the case when the four women were unable to even understand it.

Mrs. Gillett, the foreman was very reserved and wished to do her duty but had no control over Mesdames Hume, Livesay and Sneathen, who could not spend their time there, on account of a sick baby and other home duties. Mesdames Evans and Randolph were busy with cake receipts. Mrs. Stewart kept knitting and informing the ladies of the nature of women with her opinion. Mesdames Stephenson and Dinsmore were quaint old ladies, very much interested in the rights of women yet disgusted with their actions on the jury. Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Cooper were high strung suffragists and talked long and a plenty. Mrs. Cooper ended the talks with a very comical stump speech. The ladies could not agree, called their much despised sheriff—a man—and demanded to be relieved of their awful duty. Every character was good and thoroughly enjoyed by those present.

WRITE STORIES FOR MOVING PICTURE PLAYS

Owing to the large number of new motion picture theatres which are being opened throughout the country, there is offered to the men and women of to-day, a new profession, namely, that of writing moving picture plays. Producers are paying from $25 to $150 for each scenario accepted, upon which they can build a photo play $3500 in six months.

As it only requires a few hours' time to construct a complete play, you can readily see the immense possibilities in this work. One man, who gave the idea a tryout, writes that he earned $3500 in six months. It is possible for an intelligent person to meet with equal success.

One feature of the business which should appeal to everyone, is that the work may be done at home in spare time. No literary ability is required and women have as great an opportunity as men. Ideas for plots are constantly turning up, and may be put in scenario form and sold for a good price.

The Mountain View boys have a splendid record for this season, and they will rank favorably with the local team. A game as interesting as the one with Ft. Cobb recently is anticipated.
